

The CPR kiosk is a highly visible community training kiosk designed to help people overcome their fears of doing Chest Compressions

Life Kiosk

By simply by following a 90 second training video that runs on a loop in front of you, you will learn how to perform high quality chest compressions, whilst receiving visual feedback from the inbuilt manikin.

Using the Brayden manikin, the kiosk uses innovative technology to demonstrate the circulation of blood to the brain, when effective compressions are performed, providing the user with visual feedback on their performance. The CPR kiosk is ideally located in high footfall areas, where individuals passing by have time to stop and learn, such as in schools and colleges, shopping centres, large businesses and transport hubs e.g. airports, train stations and bus stations.
